

ROAD SCHOLARS

SEPTEMBER 2011

September
3-11

Keith Rowley will travel to Cambridge and Sheffield, England to participate in two programs. He will be part of the Contract, Commercial and Consumer Law Section's plenary session at the Society of Legal Scholars Annual Meeting, and will also serve as Chair and Discussant for another panel. He is serving as one of the conference organizers for "Current Issues in Commercial Contracts: Transatlantic Perspectives," at the University of Sheffield. At that conference he will present his paper, "Soup to Nuts: Governing Law, Breach, and Remedies."

September
9-11

Stacey Tovino has been invited to speak at the "Aspiring Law Professor's Conference" at the Sandra Day O'Connor College of Law of Arizona State University in Tempe.

September
12

Nancy Rapoport will speak by synchronous audio-visual means on the topic of bankruptcy ethics issues as part of the Minnesota State Bar Association's 2011 Bankruptcy Institute.

September
13-18

Marketa Trimble has been invited to talk on "Limits of Enforcement of Intellectual Property Rights – Injunctive Relief, Equity and Misuse of Rights" at the 33rd Meeting for Comparative Law of Die Gesellschaft für Rechtsvergleichung in Trier, Germany.

September
15-17

Ruben Garcia and Ann McGinley will travel to Los Angeles for the Fifth Annual Colloquium on Current Scholarship in Labor and Employment Law, which is cosponsored by UCLA School of Law, Loyola Law School and Southwestern Law School. Garcia will present "Citizenship at Work: How the Courts Marginalize Public Employees," and will participate in a roundtable on the intersections between labor and employment law and critical race theory. McGinley will present a paper, "Reasonable Men" which uses masculinities theory and feminist theory to question the standards used under Title VII to determine whether a hostile work environment exists.

September
15-17

Jeff Stempel has been invited to participate in a symposium at Seattle University School of Law, "The Twenty-Fifth Anniversary of the U.S. Supreme Court's Summary Judgment Trilogy. He will present a paper on the problems of modern summary judgment practice, and will moderate a panel discussion.

September
22-24

Kate Kruse will participate in a Symposium at the University of St. Thomas Law School in Minneapolis, MN on "The Lawyer's Role and Professional Formation." She will present her article, "Professional Role and Professional Judgment."

September
22-25

Ann Cammett and Elizabeth MacDowell will participate in the ClassCrits IV conference at American University, Washington College of Law in Washington, D.C. Cammett will participate in a panel on "Reshaping the Family through Class and Crime," by presenting her paper, "Elusive Citizenship: Child Support Enforcement and Felony Disenfranchisement." MacDowell will present a work in progress, "Functional Fragmentation: Court Pluralism, Domestic Violence and Justice System Reform" as part of the panel on Criminal Justice Reform and Economic Empowerment.

September
23-24

Ruben Garcia will present "Labor's Approach to Immigration: How Does Law Matter" at the Cornell University Institute for Social Sciences in Ithaca, NY. He will be appearing on a panel entitled "Undocumented Workers: Crossing the Borders of Immigration and Workplace Law."

September
23-24

Ngai Pindell will attend a workshop at Seattle University School of Law. The conference theme is "Promoting Diversity in Law School Leadership."

September
23-25

Addie Rolnick helped to organize two panels for the conference on "Race and Criminal Justice in the West," to be convened at Gonzaga University School of Law in Spokane, WA. She will speak on a panel entitled "Sites of Racial Disparity in the Juvenile Justice System" and will moderate a panel on "Prosecution, Defense, and Sentencing in Indian Country."

September
23-25

Marketa Trimble will present her paper, "The Future of Cybertravel" at the 39th Research Conference on Communication, Information and Internet Policy. The Conference will be in Arlington, VA and is hosted by George Mason University School of Law.

September
24-25

Ruben Garcia and Ngai Pindell will participate in planning retreat of the Society of American Law Teachers (SALT) in Seattle, WA. Pindell is Co-President of SALT, and Garcia is a member of the SALT Board of Governors.

September
30

Michael Kagan will attend the Rocky Mountain Junior Scholars Forum at Brigham Young University School of Law in Salt Lake City, Utah. He will present his paper, "Dubious Deference: Appellate Review in Factual Adjudication by Administrative Agencies."