

ROAD SCHOLARS

DECEMBER 2011

- Dec. 1-4 Nancy Rapoport will be participating in two Board of Directors meetings for two related organizations: the American Bankruptcy Institute and the American Board of Certification, which will be held in La Quinta, California. She will also participate in a faculty retreat for the American Board of Certification.
- Dec. 2 Lori Johnson will attend the Legal Writing Institute 2011 Teaching Workshop at Loyola Law School in Los Angeles, California. The intensive program will focus on new teaching pedagogies.
- Dec. 6-9 Addie Rolnick will participate in Prawfsfest, a legal theory workshop sponsored by Prawfsblog and hosted by Loyola Law School Los Angeles. She was one of several new scholars invited to present her paper to the group.
- Dec. 7-9 Jean Sternlight will travel to New York City to speak at a conference entitled, "Class Actions and Arbitration: Assessing Current and Future Practice after AT&T Mobility v. Concepcion." The conference is cosponsored by the American Arbitration Association and the Scheinman Institute for Conflict Resolution.
- Dec. 14-
Jan. 9 Marty Geer and Fatma Marouf will travel to New Dehli, India to run the annual winter intersession program, "International & Comparative Human Rights Law Practicum." The program will be directed by Geer and is a joint effort of the Boyd School of Law and the National Law University of New Delhi, India. Last year's initial program proved to be very successful.
